Hospitals and Hospitality . o. 2. Massas. Engloss: It is truly gratifying to learn from various sources how cordially the suggestions offered in a previous article, were received by many in this city, and that several offered yesterday to take one or more soldiers to their houses. This is as it should be not a soldier should be left in the warehouses.

But lest my good intent may be misconstrued by some. I write this. I have heard two objections to my proposale to take these sick soldiers into our families and nursing them as we would our own sons—as we would wish our own sons to be nursed were they sick in Virginia or Kentucky.

lst, That this course would be interfering with the medical staff-" that it would be setting a bad precedent," some one is reported to have said-Is it senting a bad precedent for Southern fathers that are now filling the hospitals of our city. Namentale Tangtan - An enterthinment of an entirely novel character is a thing so seldom enjoyed in Nashville, that we feel much pleasure in calling attention to the debuts of the "Zouaves." on Wednesday night, at the Nashville Theatre. The Zouaves, it must be premised, are veritable braves of the French army, and owe their present position to an accident discovered before the walls of Sebastopol. Their piece, the "Soldier a Boarder," was first acted in the Crimes, and during the performance the Russians, it is said, made a sortie which compelled actors and andience to take to their arms. One of the former, dressed in female attire, was killed, and others, including some brought the Theatre L'Inkernfann prominently be fore the public, and when the war terminated there Fort Pulaski is very strong and the channel close was a natural desire among civilians to see the men and narrow.
